

WorldCover-Plus TRANSPORT INSURANCE

Rather safe than sorry with our premium insurance

Severe thunderstorms and erratic weather patterns are on the rise. And mother nature doesn't spare road, sea and air traffic. Unfortunately theft is also not that uncommon... and if you do end up with damaged goods, it is a relief to know you have transport insurance with a partner who's there for you to solve the problem.

We therefore recommend taking out transport insurance to insure your goods during transit – just in case. The insurance premium is calculated based on 2% of the value of your goods*.

The insurance sets in as soon as the item is collected, and ends with the delivery of the shipment. It is applicable both in Germany and around the world, for air, sea, road and rail traffic.

In principle, our insurance covers all risks that arise during transport. The amount of the insured sum depends on the value of the transported goods.

More specifically, the following damages are covered by transportable's WorldCover Plus transport insurance:

Damage due to force majeure (lightning, hail, etc.) or an unforeseeable event (e.g. robbery)

Damage during transit

Consequential damage to goods (e.g. replacement procurement for substitute equipment)

Financial loss due to missed delivery deadline

Damage during storage

Super important: To help avoid damage to your shipment, the person responsible for sending the shipment should make sure it is safely packaged and shockproof.

If you have any other questions about our transport insurance or how to correctly package your shipment, please contact us.
